September & October 2019

From our Minister:

There was a moment last week when I found myself thinking 'Maybe I should just stop reading the news.'

That thought came at the end of a particularly confusing day in the life of our nation. Every possible position on Brexit, ending sessions of Parliament, General Elections and Referenda seemed to have been on the lips of our politicians or shared in the press. And at the end, I simply felt overwhelmed and afraid. So why is our political uncertainty the theme for my minister's letter?

When it comes to politics I have always tried to tread carefully. I know that among those of you reading this there will be some who would accept a 'No deal Brexit,' some who want a Brexit deal and some who want another opportunity to vote whether to leave the European Union at all. These 'wants' are not mutually exclusive if you're worried you find yourself falling into two of my categories.

Then there are also those of you who want a second referendum on Scottish Independence. Alongside still others who feel that the matter is settled and that we should remain part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

So I have sought to be politically neutral in case my personal politics would drive a wedge between me and any of you. However at this time in the life of our nation I feel I have to remind myself and you of what God has said through his word. What are we called to do in times like this? Where is our hope in times of political uncertainty?

First – God's children are called to be committed to Jesus above any other thing

I start here because this goes deeper than Brexit or Referenda. This is a foundation of Christian faith. Do you love anything else more than you love Jesus?

I think about Peter being asked by Jesus 'Do you love me more than these?' (John 21) or the would be followers of Jesus who sought to limit the extent to which they would follow Jesus (Matthew 8; Matthew 10:37).

There are loves in all of our lives that have the capacity to pull us away from our primary calling to love Jesus first. We can't let them succeed.

At times like this it's easy for concepts like Brexit, Independence, Referenda or maintaining the status quo to become idols in our hearts and minds. Do we love the thought of (one of) these concepts more than we love Jesus?

However important something is, it cannot displace Jesus as number one in our heart. It must not pull us away from the love we had at first for him (Revelation 2:1-7). In fact what we should be doing is seeking ways to grow our love of Jesus.

Second – God’s children are called to pray for our leaders

The apostle Paul calls us to do this explicitly (1 Timothy 2:1-2), but it’s a principle that we see at work throughout the Bible.

The staggering thing about these Biblical examples is that often times these leaders are awful people. Yes, people pray for heroes like Moses and David, but Daniel also prays for Nebuchadnezzar - a foreign dictator who has defeated and exiled Daniel’s people. Prophets pray for King Ahab – arguably the most unfaithful King of Israel and when Paul is writing to Timothy the “King” he has in mind is the Emperor Nero.

Whether you agree with Boris Johnson, Jeremy Corbyn, Nicola Sturgeon, Nigel Farage, Jo Swinson or whether they make your blood boil – we are called to pray for them and to respect that God has placed them in these positions of power (Romans 13:1-7).

Third – God’s children are called to speak for those on the margins/those who have no voice

It was reading the Old Testament that helped me decide that God wanted me to study Law when I left school rather than any of the other options on the table. In both the writings of Moses and the prophets, I heard again and again ‘defend the cause of the weak,’ remember the widows, orphans, aliens (that is to say foreigners) and the poor (Psalm 82:3 for one of many examples).

Whether we express that through loving our neighbour as we love ourselves (Luke 10:25-37) or in following God’s example of choosing the weak and foolish things (or people) of this world to reveal his plans, his power and his glory, God has a heart of compassion for those who the world would easily overlook. He loves the powerless and the unimportant. He sees and hears their cries and then He acts. Do we?

Fourth – God’s children are called to work and pray for unity/peace

If I’m being honest one of my biggest personal struggles at the moment is the lack of unity that we see in our country. However into this context Jesus calls out ‘Blessed are the peace-makers, for they shall be called the children of God’ (Matthew 5:9).

It strikes me that at times like this the Church is doing exactly what we’ve been called to when we search for unity, peace and reconciliation.

When Paul commands that prayers be offered for leaders, one of his objects is that ‘we may live peaceful and quiet lives in all godliness and holiness’ (1 Timothy 2:2) This begs the question - are we ministers of reconciliation? (2 Corinthians 5:11-21) Do we seek peace for our nation, for those around us, for the politicians of our nation? And do we ultimately want peace with God for them – the true and lasting peace that nothing else can bring but forgiveness and new life through our Lord Jesus Christ?

Fifth – God’s children are called to rely on God

I don’t know what the state of politics will be in a year’s time. In fact I don’t know how the state of politics will change from the time I write this to the time you read this we live in interesting times).

However what I do know is that our hope is not in either Brexit or Independence happening or not, nor is it in the status quo continuing or ending; our hope is in God.

There are times for all of us that it feels like we're going through the fire or flood (Isaiah 43) but our hope is not in human political ideology, but in the fact that God is with us and for us. So let's trust in God who is the same yesterday, today and forever. Let's trust in the God who is always with us and for us and has a far better vision for our future than any politician.

Throughout this letter I have attempted to be Biblical and not party political. If I've failed, I'm sorry. If what I've written provokes thoughts in you or you fancy a conversation, please get in touch. Above all else, pray, pray, pray for where we are and where we are going and trust in God.

With my love and prayers,

Alasdair.

News from SU Scotland

Give thanks

1,401 young people attended an SU Holiday this Summer, many more were part of a Holiday Club or Mission. Give thanks for each young person who had the opportunity to explore the Bible and respond to the significance of Jesus and have a great time!

There have been many encouraging stories – here's just a few:

A young Spanish girl was feeling homesick at her first event during week 1 of the Summer. She was off to a second event on week 2 which we were concerned about. It 'just so happened' that there was a Spanish speaking team member who was her group leader in Week 2 and she had a brilliant time.

A child who was openly hostile, saying 'I'm only here for the activities' had really softened by the end of the week, had build trust and was talking about believing in God. Another wanted to become a Christian, and another said, 'I believe in God now'.

Everyone had so much fun at the holiday club and we learned so much about Jesus over the three days. I was really excited to hear that one of the young people made a commitment to follow Jesus following the youth talks in the evenings. God is very good!

One of the young people shared at the end of the week how they prayed the rain would stop for camp set up and despite rain being forecast, it was dry as we set up camp, made dinner and read the Bible story. Maybe not a big event, but a significant moment in his faith journey.

There are three events taking place over the October Holidays:

- 11 – 14 October – GO Conference discipleship event at Lendrick Muir for S4-6
- 14 – 17 October – Messy Family Fun at Gowanbank
- 14 – 18 October - SU Holiday at Alltnacriche for P6-S2

Exciting news for SU in Glasgow

In August Craig Morris, who previously worked alongside Cara for CYMP, joined the SU team as Regional Worker for Glasgow. Kenny McKie (West Team Leader) says this: 'I am so pleased to welcome Craig to the SU Scotland staff team! He has been committed to ministry in Prestwick, Glasgow and his home church in East Kilbride for a number of years. He has rich experience of leading SU Groups, holiday clubs and involvement with SU weekends. Along with his service in local churches, his gifting and personal development, he has been thoroughly prepared for this role, and will continue to grow into it as we seek to develop him further.'

There are 146 primary and 37 secondary schools in Glasgow, educating over 80,000 pupils – that's a lot of opportunities to help pupils explore the Bible and respond to the significance of Jesus! Many schools do not yet have an SU Group and just half are registered on the Pray for Schools Scotland network. Craig will be working closely with churches, the Wheel Trust in the west, Junction 12 in the east and volunteers who want to help young people to express their views, engage with others and grow in confidence in their faith.

Please can I encourage you to consider supporting Craig and SU Scotland – your volunteering, praying and giving could make a big difference to Glasgow's young people.

Please pray for Craig, Carly and daughter Anna as they adjust to Craig's new role.

Craig says: 'I'm looking forward to growing the work of SU Scotland in Glasgow. I will be working with volunteers from churches across the city with the aim of starting new SU Groups in both primary and secondary schools. I'll also be encouraging existing volunteers to continue with the fantastic job they're already doing and aiming to strengthen these relationships through weekends away and training events.'

If you'd like to find out more about how you could support Craig in his work, or get involved yourself visit <https://www.suscotland.org.uk/our-team/craig-morris/>

Appeal for Homestay Hosts

Place for Hope this year celebrates 10 years since the ecumenical conference from which the organisation was born. To mark this milestone, Place for Hope will, in conjunction with various partner organisations, host a major conference on peace-making and reconciliation in Glasgow from 30th October to 1 November 2019.

We hope to make the event affordable for potential delegates who would not otherwise be able to come to Glasgow by offering a 'homestay' option, and are looking for volunteers who may be willing to offer free accommodation for up to three nights. As a Homestay host you'd benefit from:

- Guaranteed 'early bird' rate for The Gathering.
- the chance to get to know delegates with an interest in faith-based reconciliation and conflict transformation.

If you have a spare room and may be willing to help, or have further questions, please get in touch.

God Uses many remarkable means, and His infinite patience, to gain our attention.

The year is 1978. Elaine and I had moved to Glasgow the previous year and had become friends with our new neighbours of similar ages to ourselves. This was a young Jewish couple, who being recently married, felt that their household needed to restore their religious and cultural practices i.e. hallmarks of their faith.

From this, discussions among us centred around the differences we experienced in our respective faiths, all the time acknowledging that we, as I then phrased it, 'believed in the same God.'

One day, with our neighbour in our home, from the radio came a group named Boney M singing 'Rivers of Babylon.'

Immediately she said of this newly released record, rapidly climbing its way up the charts, 'that's one of our songs. One that we sing!'

Looking back, there was I, defending but not really committing to God, being fascinated by this young woman who felt in her Jewishness, so connected with the words of the song:

'By the rivers of Babylon
Where we sat down,
Yea we wept,
When we remembered Zion.-----'

I should mention that at this point in my life, I had not yet come to faith, and was making no attempt to understand or even enquire about the God whom I acknowledged. So, on reflection, I couldn't even be considered 'nominal' in my faith!

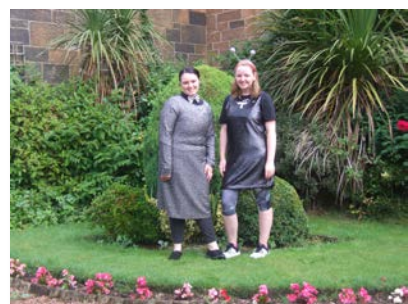

And yet here I was, listening intently to a song which, at the time, spoke to me of a people who had been held in captivity, with a longing to be released in order to return and reclaim their former homeland.

I accepted at face value this song with a catchy tune, an easy rhythm, and the 'buzz' was that the words were taken from the bible.

For some time after, this song resonated with me, possibly due to the air time it received, but I became curious about its biblical and scriptural origins that seemed to catch the attention of many.

I was surprised to learn that the words were taken from Psalms. Even more surprised to find that the song was first released in 1970 by a Rastafari singing group, whose religion centred in Africa about 90 years ago, and developed more recently in the West Indies. They lifted certain words from Psalms 19 and 137, freely adapting them to suit their own religion. Along come Boney M, a Euro-Caribbean musical group from Germany, who take the lyrics and modify them in order that they align more accurately with the translation of the original Hebrew scriptures.

It is now years later that I have come to understand better, the true context of the words in Psalms 19 and 137. It's neither influenced by the Rastafarians who altered the Psalms for their own reasons, nor by the young Jewish couple who identify dearly with the lyrics as presented by Boney M.

What I've come to understand, as John Stott explains, concerning the Israelites as captives in Babylon, is although they were forcibly deported from their homes, (Jeremiah 29:5,6), they were encouraged to settle in Babylon, to cultivate the land and to live off the fruits of their labours. I quote, 'Their hardest trial was religious, for they felt spiritually lost in their separation from temple and sacrifice.'

Nevertheless, God was in complete control! And how do I sense the presence of this awesome God who is in total control? As Alex Motyer comments of Psalm 19 and the silent voice of creation, i.e. the Glory that shines out of God's created order. He goes on to say, 'But the Word of God tells us his name, who He is. Yahweh, the God of grace, the God who hears and acts, the God of our salvation.'

To Yahweh whose ways are perfect, I'm now able to move from a 70's song with it's catchy tune, and taking the words back to their true origin, appreciate what it really means to say, 'Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in your sight, O Lord, my rock and my redeemer.' (Ps19:14 - ESV).

Jim Tarves.

Prayer Breakfast Cathcart UF Church 8.30am – 10am

Saturday 28th September

The prayer breakfast this month will be focusing on the city of Glasgow. We live in a society where there is much need. There are a number of Christian organisations helping and witnessing on our streets. Come and support them with prayer. A time of fellowship is enjoyed during breakfast before we start to pray at 9am. All welcome.
